

Where Woman Reigns Society and Clubs

In this time of evolution it is not to be wondered at that there are to be new features introduced into the time-honored custom of marrying and giving in marriage. Some there are who will hold that it is like the woman with her beauty sleep. "Lord knows, she needs it." The customs at present surrounding marriage would certainly admit of many improvements, but it will be an open question for some time yet as to whether or not the proposed innovations will mean improvement. The first suggestion advanced recently in an eastern paper is that the reception, that bore of all bodes, precede the ceremony instead of following it. This, it is argued, would do away with the crowding at the last moment, the petty annoyances to bride and bridegroom, and the attendance of many who are not to be classed among the "dear" friends.

Another suggestion is to do away with bridesmaids—this, strange to say, in the interests of harmony. A "best girl" is to be substituted and she is to be chosen not for her looks or to make a display, but because she is really the bride's best friend, or her sister. One writer ingeniously remarks that a very beautiful bridesmaid, surrounding a plain featured little bride, is anything but desirable, and the picture thus presented is not one intended to do honor to the bride. A party of bridesmaids is almost invariably chosen to make a showing, and not to set off the beauty of the bride herself.

There are those who hold that the very best way to manage these things is to allow all sorts of marriage ceremonies to run riot, till they become even more of a laughing stock than they now are and more impossible to be mistaken for anything but shows (holy shows), until people of all classes will see the ridiculousness of contracting matrimony under such conditions, and the pendulum will swing inevitably the other way. And may we be here to see.

A new set of cotillions was introduced the past week in Philadelphia, to be known as the Cinderella cotillions, in place of the old "fortnightlies," and it is supposed by the uninitiated that the slipper will play an important part in the series. One figure arranged to embody the old story from which the organization gets its new name would be an interesting one at any dance.

The third assembly of the four planned for the winter time will be given next Wednesday evening and will come at a more opportune time for the dancing folk than did either of the two previously given. The affair promises to be a most delightful one in every way, a number of the younger married folk of the city, who were out of town or were otherwise prevented from attending, having joined since the last, and having planned to attend the other two. The patronesses for the Wednesday night dance are Mrs. Charles W. Whitley, Mrs. W. Montague Perry, Mrs. Arthur H. St. Bird, Mrs. J. S. Salisbury and Mrs. John A. Marshall. A number of dinners will precede the dance, both at the various homes and at some of the clubs.

Another delightful dancing event of the coming week will be the dance to be given in Ogden by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Matson to a large company of their friends. The affair will be given in the Congress dancing academy and will be on an elaborate scale. Mr. and Mrs. Matson are among the most popular of Ogden's young married folk and are known as ideal entertainers. A large number of their Salt Lake friends are planning to go up that evening to attend the affair.

There was an admiring throng of friends at the train the day Mr. and Mrs. William Ingersoll left Salt Lake, and it was in admiration of the regulation kind of "matinee idol" the crowd was an unusual one. The soulful-eyed young girl was lacking, but in her place were a few strong men, cordial friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll, a number of older friends who had known the actor when he was here in earlier days, and a goodly number of the matrons, who have become cordial friends of Mrs. Ingersoll. A large number of people came into a town for a stay of only a few months and left having made such warm friends as did the Ingersolls.

The date set for the next hop at Fort Douglas is Friday evening, January 27, and the hop will probably be the last before the regiment leaves in the early spring for the Philippines. The affair is in the hands of the hop committee, Capt. A. J. McNab, Lieut. Charles L. Sampson and Lieut. E. R. Garey. Mrs. Clark R. Elliott and Lieut. and Mrs. Paul C. Potter will stand in the receiving line.

Word comes from Washington that the young daughters of Col. and Mrs. E. A. Wall, who were guests at the New Willard in Washington, when the famous bachelors' cotillon was given there, were much admired and were among the smart belles of the younger set.

Miss Mary Irwin of Keokuk, Ia., a popular young girl, who has been a guest at the Dodge home for some time past, and who left yesterday with her aunt and grandmother for the coast, has been entertained at cards, followed by a tea for the younger folks and the bachelors officers at the post. Friday afternoon Mrs. W. P. Kiser entertained a small company of friends at the home of Miss Irwin and Miss Jeanette Kiser.

Two specially pleasant affairs are planned for this evening, as Salt Lake is growing more and more toward the idea of entertaining Sunday evening. Miss Lucile Franke will entertain a party of eight young people at a dinner at the Lovere in compliment to Miss Stella Fabian, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Pearsall will give an informal supper for Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Perry who leave shortly for an extended trip.

Mrs. and Mrs. James M. Arrasmith entertained a party of friends last evening at a delightful dinner at their home, when following the dinner three tables of bridge were played. The guests were Lieut. and Mrs. Eugene Santschi, Lieut. and Mrs. A. O. Seaman, Lieut. and Mrs. F. M. Miller and Lieut. and Mrs. Hugh Walshall.

"A NERVOUS WRECK"

"My daughter is rapidly becoming a nervous wreck," said an anxious father to a friend who happened to be a druggist. "She has no appetite, is run down, weak, takes no interest in anything, and we cannot find anything that helps her."

"Why don't you give her Vinol?" said the druggist. "It is not a secret nostrum, just a simple and delicious cod liver and iron tonic—and the best strength creator and general all round tonic we have ever sold in our store. Take a bottle home and try it. We'll return your money if it does not help her."

Within ten days the father came back for another bottle of Vinol, saying that he had never seen such a change in a girl in his life, and he felt sure one more bottle of Vinol would restore her to her normal condition.

Such cases as the above are constantly coming to our attention, and we ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person in this vicinity, and every person suffering from a chronic cough, cold or bronchial trouble, to try a bottle of Vinol on the same terms as above. ## IN WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Everything Runs to Dancing Now

EVELYN LEE FITZHUGH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—This is a season which makes fat the purse of the shoemaker and, by the same token, the purses of the raps of a debutante more flat, for the numbers of pairs of dainty and costly slippers which my young lady dances out this winter, is going to be appalling to the afore-said papa. Not many years have there been as many balls and dances of all descriptions as there are this season. Everything runs to dancing. No matter what kind of an entertainment it starts out to be, it invariably by some magic art or other, turns into a dance. It has not quite contaminated the sittings of that august body, the supreme court, but you never can tell what may happen.

Last week there were three dances of the first water, not to mention myriads of more modest halls. The Bachelors' cotillon at the Willard was a most gorgeous affair, the Bachelors being one of the smartest dancing clubs in the country, which every winter gives three elegant dances, invitations which are eagerly and promptly accepted. No debutante feels herself a success until she has one of these much-coveted bids.

Mrs. Taft received the guests for the hosts, clad in a beautiful gown of black chiffon encrusted with silver, a lace deau of silver and clusters of rosebuds in her hair. Her flowers were a great cluster of Richmond roses, lilies of the valley and hyacinths. The fair Helen, who made her first appearance at the White House coming out, a very sweet in pink satin with an overdress of taupe chiffon and touches of coral on the skirt and surplice bodice. Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the White House debutante once removed, wore a draped gown of blue satin, sparkling all over with rhinestones, and a corage bouquet of crimson roses. One of the handsomest of the dancers in the ballroom was Miss Martha Harrison, the debutante granddaughter of the late Senator Saunders. Miss Harrison was a striking figure in a beautiful green satin gown, veiled in chiffon; she wore corse satin slippers and a bandeau of cerise satin in her hair. An interesting band of the hall was Mr. John Drew, who was playing at the theater in town.

Ball No. 2 was a private party, and a gorgeous one it was too. Mrs. Leiter being the hostess. The magnificent Leiter residence on Dupont circle was ablaze with lights and veritable fairy-land of flowers, all of which were out from the Leiter conservatories, and the great white and gold ballroom was a mass of pink hydrangeas and American Beauty roses. In the library, before the arrival of the beautiful Lady Curzon, eldest daughter of Mrs. Leiter, was a great cluster of her favorite American Beauties; ever since the death of Lady Curzon her mother has kept these, ever fresh, before her picture.

Mrs. Leiter was superb in a gown of royal purple velvet, with some rare and exquisite old Italian lace; her jewels were the famous magnificent rubies. Miss Taft, the guest of honor, wore the same blue satin and chiffon costume she did at her coming out party. Miss Nancy Neff and Miss Martha Harrison, the latter hailing originally from the Golden West, were among the most popular dancers.

Third on the list of smart affairs was the debut ball of Miss Ruth Wynne, the beautiful daughter of the former United States consul general at London, and former postmaster general. The ball was given at Hauscher's, the most entertaining suite being used. The young social fleeter, who is one of the beauties of the season, was lovely in a Paris gown of white crepe meteor, with an exquisite tunic of the most admired of the season, a pretty bridge party last week at the home of Mrs. Lilburn H. Steele. Mrs. Smoot receives informally on Thursday during January.

Senator George Sutherland was one of the distinguished men who were entertained at dinner last week by the attorney general, Mr. Wickham. The dinner was given in honor of the new Chief Justice White, and the other guests were composed of members of the cabinet, supreme court and congressional circles.

Dr. Paris Brengle and Mrs. Brengle entertained at cards last week in honor of Miss Blyth of Evanston, Wyo., who is a very attractive young visitor in Washington this winter.

Henry H. Rolapp of Ogden, Utah, was last week admitted to practice law before the supreme court in Washington.

Miss Elizabeth Hamer of Idaho was one of the most admired of the season at a pretty ball given last week by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Johnson in honor of their daughter. Since her arrival in Washington Miss Hamer has been very extensively entertained.

The ladies of the Congressional club held a large and brilliant reception last week at their club house on Fifteenth street. This club, which is a very smart affair, its members, as the name indicates, being only of the congressional set, seldom admits outsiders into the sacred precincts of its club house. But when it does, it does it right, and lavishes the best that is on its guests.

The president of the club, who is Mrs. Gregg, wife of the representative from Texas, was assisted in receiving by a number of ladies, among them being Mrs. Nixon, wife of the senator from Reno, and Mrs. Charles Clark and others. The rooms were beautifully decked in Christmas greens, holly, mistletoe and poinsettia blossoms, and the tea table had a centerpiece of the red roses.

The new justice of the supreme court, Mr. Van Devanter, and Mrs. Van Devanter, who arrived here from their home in Wyoming and are the guests of Mr. Justice and Mrs. Van Orsdal on Ontario road, until they are settled in their residence on Sixteenth street.

Mrs. Saunders, the widow of the late Senator Saunders of Nebraska, is spending the winter with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, and Miss Martha Harrison.

of woven pearl network. Mrs. Wynne, the mother of the debutante, wore a magnificent robe in which she was presented at court; it was white satin with panels of white velvet embroidered in silver and gold. About three hundred guests were present on this beautiful occasion, many members of the diplomatic corps, official and residential circles. Noticeable in the company were Mrs. Livingston Engan of Jacksonville, who was elegant in black chiffon embroidered in silver; Miss Nancy Neff, Miss Martha Harrison and Mrs. George Sutherland, wife of the senator from Utah, who Sutherland looked very handsome in an exquisite white lace gown.

Mrs. Perry Heath was the hostess at a beautiful luncheon last week at her elegant new home on S street. Mrs. Heath received her guests, who were fourteen in number, in a smart costume of black velvet and lace. The table was lovely with its wealth of silver and glass, and the great centerpiece of pink carnations and ferns.

Mrs. Sutherland, wife of Senator Sutherland, received last week with Mrs. Charles F. Stokes, wife of the surgeon general of the navy, at a beautiful tea at her apartment at the Willard. The room was carefully decorated in red carnations, holly and mistletoe. One of the very young girls who assisted at the tea was Miss Elizabeth Hicks of California, who is spending the winter in Washington with her aunt, Mrs. John W. Dwight, one of the representative from New York.

Mrs. Reed Smoot was a guest at a pretty bridge party last week at the home of Mrs. Lilburn H. Steele. Mrs. Smoot receives informally on Thursday during January.

Senator George Sutherland was one of the distinguished men who were entertained at dinner last week by the attorney general, Mr. Wickham. The dinner was given in honor of the new Chief Justice White, and the other guests were composed of members of the cabinet, supreme court and congressional circles.
